

As part of their “transformation” of ESIA, the Liberal government has expanded the wage exemption to allow clients to keep more of the money they earn before seeing a reduction in their income assistance.

However, EI benefits and self-employment income continue to be clawed back at 100%.

We, the undersigned, call on the provincial government to immediately address this differential treatment of income by changing ESIA policy so that all employment related income, including earnings from self-employment and EI, be treated the same as employment income from other sources.
